Southern Pacific's Losses Thus Far Over $1.000,000-Ranchers Also Suffer Severely -More Rain.

By Telegraph to The Times.

TRUCKEE, Jan. 29.—[By the Associated Press.] The Cascade cut was opened at 3 o'clock this morning by 500 snow shovelers, raising the blockade from tunnel No. 13 westward. A wooden plow, with seven engines, having Hoy's wrecking outfit on the rear of the train, started west from Truckee at 9 o'clock this morning. They met with almost insurmountable difficulty met with almost insurmountable difficulty on account of the frozen snow and slush on the sides of the cuts. In places huge blocks of ice had rolled on the side of the track and frozen solid. The plow went off the track three times, and at other times stuck fast and had to be shoveled out. It is now less than four miles from town, and has three miles further to go before the road is clear.

It has been storming fearfully all along the line, drifting and blowing everywhere.

Supt. Whitehead went to Reno this after-

The snow is drifting badly down Truckee Canon, but no trouble is anticipated eastward.

gers.

Eight mail cars containing nine days' westbound mail, arrived from Reno last night. Three boxcars loaded with newspapers were left at Reno. A snowslide occurred at 90'clock this morning east of Verdi, three feet deep and 600 feet wide.

THE ROTARY BREAKS DOWN.

TRUCKEE, Jan. 29.—The rotary has broken every cog on the gearing of the mein shaft, and gone to Sacramente for repairs. The Cyclone reached Truckee at noon resterday, and has two of her six cylinders completely disabled. She is in poor condition to work. Fears were entertained that the Cyclone was too large to go through the sheds, but she was run through them above Truckee at 6 o'clock last night. It is now thought she will have no difficulty in the sheds. Last evening was bright, and the people of Truckee were out to witness the spectacle of the Cyclone at work. The forward trucks of the Cyclone soon went off the track, and a wrecking crew has been trying to replace her. The west-bound train carrying the west-cound mails is at Boca.

THE NORTHERN ROADS. Little Improvement in the Situation —Still Storming.

Press. It snowed all yesterday, and last night the snow turned into a warm rain, the temperature being 34°. Should it continue 24 hours it will greatly reduce the, amount of snow and raise the Sacramento River. The railroad is now open to above Dunsmuir, where the snowplow and a force of men with Supt. Pratt are working in the nud and snowslides below Mott. will probably reach here in a couple of days unless more slides occur. The snowplow will probably reach net in a couple of days unless more slides occur. The anowplow working from Edgewood has not arrived, as several engines are disabled.

But little news comes from the Sisklyou Mountains, Everything is abandoned there till this portion of the line gets open.

Sisson, Jan. 29.—The light snow this morning turned to rain this afternoop. Tonight it is clear.

San Francisco, Jan. 29.—A Redding special to the Chronicle says: The mountain-roads and gulches are blocked by drifts from fifteen feet to an unknown depth, and are at some points so deep that no relief can be sent for months to come. Yesterday the storm continued, and today the Upper Sacramento is a raging torrent, but no fears of danger are entertained. Copley reports that it is getting short of provisions, and a supply train was sent today. Nearly all the mines in this section have closed down.

At the from Mountain and Old Confidence mines several slides have occurred and buildings have been broken down.

A cloudburst struck Redding this afternoon, lasting three-quarters of an hour. The streets were turned into sheets of water, and it is probable that the railroad south of here will be closed again by washouts.

ASHLAND (Or.), Jan. 29.—It has been raining steadily here since yesterday. The thermometer is at 45°, and the snow is rapidly melting in the mountains. Streams are riging and damage is reported from the track washing out nine miles north of Grant's Pass. All first-class passengers for the south detained here left yesterday morning for Portland. Only one train has come through from Portland in a week. There is a prospect of another flood in Regue River and its tributaries.

Oroville, Jan. 29.—The past three days have been clear. Today is cloudy with light rain, warmer, but not warm enough to send the rain far into the mountains, and it is feared that another heavy fall of snow will be the result. No fears are entertained here of high water at present, as it will require weeks of warm rain and heavy winds to start much snow; but the snow is there, and unless it goes off slower than is usually the case, extreme high water must occur before the season has passed.

Several parties have been formed in different portions of the mountains to visit persons living in out-of-the-way places who had not been heard from since the commencement of the storm. In two or three cases persons searched for have been found dead, and several were found who needed rollef. It is feared many more old miners who have lived alone in the mountains for years have fallen yetims to the terrible winter.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC'S GREAT LOSSES. SOUTHERN PACIFIC'S GREAT LOSSES.

SOME ORNAMENTAL SWEARING IN THE CHINESE CASE.

Childlike Ching Ling, Who Never Saw or Heard of a Lottery Game-Text of the Supreme Court Decision in the "Mac"

The Chinese lottery case before Justice Lockwood was on trial again yes terday, and the little courtroom was literally packed with Chinamen, who take a wonderful interest in it. The case has drifted into the most remarkable defense imaginable, and the witnesses for the defense have been obliged to make such absurd statements that the jurors at times have laughed outright. The four defendants having been ar rested while actually in the process of drawing a lottery, and their tickets, baskets and other apparatus having been seized and introduced in court, been seized and introduced in court, the defense spent all day yesterday in trying to build up the theory that the exhibits in the case are only used by Ching Ling, the "boss," in keeping his private accounts; in other words, that the officers were laboring under an hallucination when they thought they saw lottery, and should have rubbed their eves again.

their eyes again.
Ching Ling was on the stand all the morning, and continued his statement morning, and continued his statement of the day before in regard to his business. Ching, like all Chinamen, was evasive in his answers unless pinned right down to a categorical reply. He displayed a tendency to speak a good deal and say a very little. One of the defendants, he said, is his uncle, and a history transcrete the same of the defendants. kind of manager for him; another is his book-keeper, the third a treasuer, and the fourth merely a visitor in the room the day of the arrest. He said the bunches of tickets captured are accounts from his pawnbrokers' business, and he made the statement, without the twitch of a muscle in his face, that he never saw a Chinese lottery carried on in Chinatown, or ever heard of one. The tin pan, wherein the tickets are first placed in the drawing, he said, is a waste-paper basket. The baskets are used by his clerk for a place to put money. In short, Ching put himself on record as one of the ablest inventors of a Chinese fairy tale in the city.

Ah Fon, the interpreter, was asked some questions by the defense, which brought out answers not relished by them. He was asked to describe the uses to which the tickets in evidence may be put, and replied that the square tickets, with the characters thereon, are used in many ways. They are used by children in school as a kind of second reader. The tickets contain a second reader. The traces contain a thousand characters. They may be used as letters or numbers, and the tickets have really a great many uses.

Upon being close pressed, Ah Fon also said that they are used in lotteries.

Mr. Wilson added to this that he had shown the jury his point, which is that the tickets have numerous uses besides being used in lotteries. The first question asked by Mr.

Dunigan on cross-examination was the nature of the specific tickets in evidence, just as they are, with the marks on them. The witness replied at once that the tickets in evidence are lottery tickets, and the cross-examination

The defendants were put on the stand, and vigorously and in choice Mongolian swore that they never played lottery, knew nothing about it, and when arrested were engaged in pursuit of their legitimate occupations as employes of Ching Ling. That is, all but Foug Ark, who said that he was paying a visit to his friends when last year when Justice Lockwood set it for trial. The opinion in the case rendered day before yesterday by the Supreme Court reached the city yesterday, and the text shows that the point as to the right of Powelson to a trial by jury was not passed upon by the court. The hopes of the authorities that they would be able to secure a decision upon that point in this case are dashed to the ground, and they will be obliged to go at the matter in another way. The text of the decision is as follows:

Powelson, appellant, vs. Lockwood, respondent. No. 13,390.

Alternative writ of prohibition issued by the Superior Court of the county of Los Angeles, son the petition of the appellant, to the respondent, a justice of the peace of Los Angeles city, to prohibit said justice from trying the petitioner on a charge of vagrancy, under section 647 of the Penal Code, without a jury. The appeal is from the judgement discharging the writ. It appears that the respondent denied the petitioner's demand for a jury trial, properly made, if he was entitled to a jury trial, and that the Justice proposed and was about to try him upon said charge without a jury.

about to try nim upon said charge a jury.

Upon the trial the application was approved on two grounds: First, that prohibition was not the proper remedy; second, that defendant was not entitled to a jury trial.

The Court sustained the opposition on the first ground, and declined to consider the second.

I think the Court properly sustained the opposition to the writ on the first ground above stated, and for the reasons that the justice's court had jurisdiction of the subabove stated, and for the reasons that the justice's court had jurisdiction of the subject matter—the misdemeanor charged, and of the parties; that in denying a jury trial, even-if appellant was entitled to it, and in trying or proposing to try the case without a jury, the justice's court-did not exceed nor propose to exceed its jurisdiction, and, that, even if this action or proposed action of the justice's court was erroneous, it was so only as to the mode of procedure in an action of which that court had jurisdiction. The commission of such an error cannot be arrested or corrected by the writ of prohibition (Ex parte Miller, opinion filed January 2, 1890). If there was any exception to this general rule, at common law, which is doubtful, it has been repealed by our code of Civil Procedure as heretofore expounded and enforced by the court, (Clark vs. Superior Court, 55 Cal., 199; Wreden vs. Superior Court, 55 Cal., 199; Wreden vs. Superior Court, 55 Cal., 199; Wreden vs. Superior Court, 64 Cal., 343, Besides, the appellant had a plain, speedy and adequate remedy by appeal to the Superior Court, (P. C. Sees, 1287, 1466 and 1467.)

No point has been made or argued by Basides, the appeliant had a plain, speedy and adequate remedy by appeal to the Superior Court. (P. C. Secs. 1287, 1466 and 1467.)

No point has been made or argued by counsel on this branch of the case, though the decision of it seems to be well sustained by an able opinion of the learned judge of the lower court, brought up with the record. But counsel have stipulated "that if the defendant is entitled to a jury trial in such misdemeanor case in the said justice's court, the judgement and decision of the Superior Court herein may be reversed, with the direction to the court below to enter an order that appellant have prohibition directed unto respondent and his said court, to desist from all further proceedings to the case of the People vs. Powelson without a jury." (Appellant's brief, page 6.) As to this stipulation, respondent's coupsel says: "The real issue in this case being as to which her left the courtroom with his attorney, who seemed to enjoy the cases of Supt. Robinson and appellant, being desirious of having the question finally settled on this appeal, the respective coursel have entered into the stipulation set forth in paragraph 11, pages 5 and 6, of appellant's brief; and in accordance therewith, present no points on the question of prohibition, but confine themselves to the question as to whether appellant is entitled to a jury trial, and respectfully ask the court to pass upon that point solely."

Insanuch as counsel have very ably, argued the question which, alone, they have stipulated to submit, I regret to say that, in my opinion, their stipulation must be disregarded.

I think the lower court properly declined stipulated to submit, I regret to say that, as my opinion, their stipulation must be disregarded.

I think the lower court properly declined to consider the question as to whether the justice's court merely erred in denying a jury trial. That court exhausted its authority, on the application for the writ of probibition, in determining, as it did, that the act sought to be prohibited was not in excess of the jurisdiction of the justice's court, and that the defendant had a remedy by appeal. It could not, on that application, arrest or review the mere errors of the justice's court about to be committed within the province of its jurisdiction, and thus make the writ of prohibition, or the application for it, serve the purpose of an appeal. The same rule must be applied to the case here on this appeal, otherwise, this court must exercise mere appellate jurisdiction by means of a writ of prohibition, without any appeal, and in a case to which the appellate jurisdiction of this court does not extend. It is, therefore, unnecessary, for any purpose of this appeal, to decide whether or not the appellant was entitled to a jury trial in the justice's court; and the expression of an opinion upon this question would be improper, notwithstanding the stipulation of coursel, for the reasons that such an opinion would have no bearing upon any material question to be decided, and no proper effect as authority or otherwise. (State vs. McGlynn, 20 Cal., 276.)

THE STREET-OBSTRUCTING CASES. Judge Stanton was greeted by a dis tinguished audience when he mounted the bench yesterday afternoon. S. M. White, Esq., accompanied by his clerk, was inside the rail busily engaged in writing, and near him sat S. C. Hubbell, Esq., who was also writing. These gentlemen were the attorneys for the Main-street and cable car lines, and were on hand to look after the interests of the companies. On the outside, near the attorneys' table, sat William Brodrick, president of the Main-street line, by the side of Assistant Superintendent Hawkes, who was arrested Tuesday afternoon for obstructing the streets. Court was opened promptly at 1:30 o'clock, and after disposing of the regular routine of drunks, etc., the case of John Doe Hawkes was called. Judge Stanton asked Mr. Hawkes if this was his true name, when that gentleman replied that his surname was William, whereupon the Judge proceeded to read the complaint, wherein Hawkes is charged by Inspector Schwannecke with violating the city ordinances, obstructing the streets by placing sandbags on the same. When he concluded he asked Mr. Hawkes how he pleaded.

At this point Mr. White spoke up and said that he wished to enter a demurrer, at the same time handing Judge Stanton the paper. After looking the paper over, the Judge asked if they were ready to proceed with the trial, when Mr. Crutcher, on behalf of the city, said that they were not, and, after some talk between counsel, the hearing was continued until Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clook.

Mr. White then said that his client had cash bail of $25 deposited, which he wished to withdraw, and substitute a bail bond, saying that he did not wish to keep so much ready money out of circulation.

MAYOR HAZARD AND THE CABLE COMPANY OF THIS CITY.

Francisco and Other Cable Roads, and How They Are Operated for the Safety of the People-The Ordinance That Is to Go Into Effect in Los Angeles

The sad death of the young girl, Lizzie Simpson, on the Downey-avenue col. Moriord, when seen by a TIMES reporter yesterday afternoon at his office, said that he had no particular interest in the matter one way or another, and was merely doing his duty and carrying out the orders of the Council, which had instructed the viaduct, Sunday afternoon, by being run over by a cable dummy, has revived interest in the subject of providing safety appliances by which the danger to life and limb can be lessened. Many persons, from the tone of communications to the daily press, seem to think that the matter has never re-ceived any consideration in this city. In this, however, they are mistaken, for shortly after the cable roads began operations action was taken by the municipal authorities. Mayor Hazard was fully alive to the dangers of the cable system, and, in order to gain any and all information on the subject, wrote to the Mayors of San Francisco and Chicago, which cities have the and Chicago, which cities have the most extensive and complete cable systems in the world, inquiring as to the effectiveness of guards around the cars to prevent accidents, and asking what, if any, patented divice was in use that was satisfactory. The letters were promptly answered, and have since been on file in Mayor Hazard's office, that of the Mayor of San Francisco, by his clerk, being as follows:

ceipt of your favor of the 7th inst., m iking inquiries as to guards around street railway cars to prevent accidents.

I inclose a copy of the order of the Board of Supervisors governing the matter, which has it most cases been compiled with only partially, and the devices which are in use are in my individual opinion of little use.

The contrivances at present used consist merely of frameworks of rods placed in front of cars and extending along the sides, the rods being of gas pipe four to six inches apart, and extending to within about an inch and one-half of the ground.

The only patented attachment in use seems to be that attached to the cars of the Ferries and Cliff House Railway Company, which is described as follows:

"It is composed of a triangular upright guard made of wood and iron, with upright wooden rollers covered with rubber, known as the Edward's patent, placed in front of the car, reaching within about one and one-half inches of the roadway, and extending full width of the track, and guards made of wire attached to both sides of the car, and reaching as near as practicable to the roadway."

I do not think myself that any device in Robert D. McScriver et al. began suit against W. H. Rhodes upon a mechanic's lien for $212. J. H. Snowden, accused of seduction, was yesterday in Judge Cheney's court and pleaded not guilty to the charge.

Hon. Henry T. The buffers used by the cable on the North Side are patented by Brownell & White of St. Louis. They consist of two links with a coupling. There is no ordinance of the city relating to guards or buffers. The companies seem satisfied with the efficiency of the buffers now in use. There is a patent, it is known, on an excelent buffer, by a man named Rasmussen, who resides in this city. Very respectfully,

Several cold storage schemes have been gotten up to treat the fruit before sending east, but, as a rule, the producers have come out losers, and they hardly know what to do. Secretary Ward of the Board of Trade and several other live members of that institution have thoroughly canvassed the subject, and have made up their minds that something must be done at once to protect the pro-

It was believed up to a short time ago that crystallized fruits could not be successfully made in any country but France. This is a mistake however, for we grow much better fruit than is produced in France, and it can be put up equally France, and it can be put up equally as successfully here. There is a big market for this class of goods all over the world, and, if we carry out our arrangements, the producers will get much better prices than they do at present, and there will be no waste to speak of."

Tuesday morning, however, a rather intelligent looking man about 50 years of age, dressed in a faded blue suit, walked into Jones's bookstore, on First

The man began to get nervous, and could give no satisfactory answers, and when, in looking through the books, Mr. Jones came upon Mr. Cowan's name, he was satisfied that they had been stolen. In the mean time the man had been edging toward the door, and when he got near it, remarked that he would have to go out for a few minutes, but would return, and Mr. Jones could then tell him what he could afford to pay for the books. He then made a burried exit and failed to return. Mr. Jones has returned the books to the owner, but no trace has been found of the thieves.

A COLD DAY FOR THEM.

GENERAL RAID ON LOUISIANA AGENCIES.

Twelve Complaints Issued and Six Operators Taken Into Court-Mrs. Ferner Wants the Court to Take Her Word for Her Bond.

Yesterday was a typical Southern California day, so far as the general public was concerned, but among the Louisiana lottery people the temperature was decidedly frigid—in fact, the mercury dropped away below zeroand by evening most of the offices were frozen up—at least, for the time being. As stated yesterday, in connection with the arrest of Greenwald, the police have been at work systematically for some weeks, and it was known that a number of cases had been made out, but just when the blow would fall was not known. Yesterday morning, however, it was deducted to bring matters to a head and commenced. cided to bring matters to a head, and Judges Owens and Stanton granted twelve complaints, on which warrants were issued for the arrest of the par-ties, most of which were made out in the name of John Doe. There were three against Max Harris, two against Mrs. R. Ferner, three more against Greenwald, one against Wolfstein, two against Gunst, which were afterward changed to Elias Cohen, a clerk in his employ, and one against Leo Sanderson, a small boy in the employ of Max Harris, and who does most of the actual as mall boy in the employ of Max Harris, and who does most of the actual selling.

The warrants were given to Detective Bosqui to serve, and he started out on his rounds, when the circus commenced. The lottery men did not seem to know how to take the matter. Some tried to treat it as a joke, while others tried to buff it off, and again, others tried to shed tears. As all of the parties are in business in the city, and there was no danger of their running away, the officer did not place them under arrest, but, after calling their attention to the amount of the bond required, which ranged from $200 to $500, notified them to be in the Police Court at 2 o'clock, or they would be sent for. Then he returned to the police station and made his report.

Promptly at the hour named, the defendants were in court, most of them accompanied by bondsmen, and the work of approving the bonds was commenced. Wolfstein did not have his bondsmen present, and was allowed to go out and cet them which he did

All of the others asked time to plead All of the others asked time to plead, which was granted, with the exception of Mrs. Ferner, who pleaded not guilty to both complaints, and created something of a sensation by announcing that she had no attorney. Judge Owens asked her when she would be ready for trial, when she replied in a week or two, and it was set for Thursday, February 6th, at 10 o'clock. The Judge then asked the lady if she was prepared to give bond, saying that it was optional with her as to whether she deposited $100 cash in each case or gave a bond for double that amount. Mrs. Ferner said she was not prepared to do either; that she had no money and no friends, and that the Court would have to take her word.

This remark caused another sensation, and there was a murmur throughout the courtroom, which was hushed as Judge Owens replied that that would not do, as no one's word was taken in that court. There is no tell-as Judge Owens replied that that would not do, as no one's word was taken in that court. There is no telling just how the matter would have resulted had not Messrs. Emil Harris and Jacoby, who were sitting at a table near by, volunteered to go on the lady's bond, when the necessary papers were soon made out and she left the courtroom.

Among those present to qualify as bondsmen for the various defendants were Messrs. Susskind, Goldsmith, Stern, Werner, Emil Harris, Jacoby, Gunst and several others.

There is no doubt but what the lottery agents will make common cause, and employ able counsel to defend them, as the business is very profitable, and they will not give it up without a hard struggle. On the other hand, the authorities mean business, and say that they intend to effectually put a stop to the traffic if such a thing is possible. The cases have all been carefully worked up, and Chief Glass has got the evidence in such shape that it is almost impossible not to secure a conviction, as the parties are fully identified, and the tickets are all in evidence. The police judges, too, are heartily in accord with the movement, and the cases will be tried on their merits, Assistant District Attorney Phibbs promising that the prosecution will not be wanting. There is no doubt but what the lot-

This beautiful book is the most practical work of the kind that has ever been printed and will be warmly welcomed by our readers. Its author has had a long and extended ex-perience in artistic needlework, and in this volume she has carefully set forth the results of her study and labor in this fascinating department of art.

She has illustrated her work by means of COLORED PLATES, each one of which is made directly from the piece of embroidery which it represents. On one page of the book she shows an outline pattern of the leaves, and on the opposite page is a ceautiful COLORED PLATE showing the pattern as it appears after it has been properly worked. This plate shows the exact colors that were used in doing the work, and the outline pattern is lettered and numbered, and the author gives full directions for working the colors

THERE ARE EIGHT OF THESE COLORED PLATES, AS FOLLOWS:

Autumn Leaves, Yellow Daisies,

Golden Rod.

Wild Roses,

Morning Glories, Thistles. Pansies

Any lady can master the beautiful art of embroidery in colors without any other instructions than this valuable book gives. THIS WORK IS PRINTED ON HEAVY TINTED PAPER and is bound with beautifully illuminated cover. It is such a book as needs of every household we have put the price within the reach of all.

THE San Diego Sun becomes rather excited over the asserted sending of a representative from Los Angeles to Washington. The Sun may control itself. The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce has sent no emissary to Washington, and, in all probability, Ir is stated that influenza has completely disappeared from St. Peters-burg and Moscow. This gives those persons 'out here, who are wrestling with the disease, about as much satisfaction as is felt by a man whom a bear is mauling, when he is informed that id bear has "completely disappeared" from its cave.

Perhaps New York had better try to put up its Grant monument by the same means.

THE situation in the Sierra Nevadas is still very critical. As fast as the Central Pacific clears one stretch of track another section is snowed under by drifts. It is an unequal fight of man against Nature. Meanwhile, no more striking proof of the advantage our low mountain passes, at this end of the State, could have been afforded. It is not likely that any other roads will try to cross the sierras in the neighborhood of the Central Pacific.

CIDED MOVE.

Chief of Police yesterday op ned the crusade against the Louisiana lottery ticket sellers, by serving The Chief is said to have the evidence for the conviction of these people in them of every cent which they can be good shape, and declares that there be pushed to a conclusion.

For years past, California is supposed to have been the leading contributor to the coffers of the Louisiana State Lottery. The amount stated to be annually taken out of the State by this gigantic confidence game looks scarcely credible, when put in black and white. It is an enticing game to play, and its very simplicity lends it additional charms, which appeal to all classes. All you have to do is to buy a numbered ticket for a dollar, and then wait until the list of prizes is published on the blackboards of the agencies, and in some of the newspapers Then your number may be found among those drawing prizes-or it may not. As a safe investment, which will add to a bank reserve against de clining years, a bet that the number will not be found in the list may be recommended to those who shun realestate mortgages from prudential reabe that, should the number by a great auditorium was crowded in every part, and chance be found there, it will have appended to it a very modest prize, en-titling the drawer to a sum just large enough-say $10 or $20-to induce him or her to nibble again—and lose. The enormous profits made by this concern may be judged of by the great offers which the company has made to the State of Louisiana for a renewal of its charter, which soon expires. Yet, in spite of all this, people continue to buy the tickets, and will continue to do so, unless protected against themselves. Of course, people will continue to send direct to Now Orleans for tickets, but only a fraction of those who now buy will continue to do so, when they have to sit down, write a letter and remit money to New Orleans to get a ticket. At present, the tickets are peddled from door to door, like

The Louisiana scheme is a double evil. It is not only a demoralizing gambling game, but it takes a large amount of money out of the State, never to return. If we are to have a lottery at all, we should have a home institution. But the law of the State says that lotteries, and the sale of lottery tickets, are illegal. Several indecisive attempts have been made by previous municipal administrations to stop the practice, but such attempts have hitherto all fallen still-born. Now an attempt is being made which we are assured will be pushed through. The authorities-the Police Commission-deserve credit for the backbone which they are displaying, and the public should hold up their hands. Pepular sympathy and approval in such cases goes a long way.

It is not only the sellers of tickets who are breaking the law, but also papers which advertise the scheme by regularly printing lists of prizes and with persons who are asserted to have drawn lucky numbers Many foolish people are beguiled into purchasing tickets through such pub-The papers are said to claim that they are acting within the letter of the law, by not publishing anything about a drawing until it ha become a past event. Possibly this may be so, but assuredly it is very low ground for a reputable journal to take It may be, as is claimed by some that gambling is an inherent passion in human nature, which, suppressed in one direction, will crop out in another; that buying lottery tickets is no worse than buying mining stock on Pine ready for circulation. It was the on Wall street, New York, or pools on Kelso, the librarian, that in a city situated as far from large music establishmeter and all be so, but the city attended to the librarian attended to the librari authorities have nothing to do with that. They have simply to administer the law as they find it-the State law, which declares that the sale of lottery tickets is a misdemeanor-a law which has hitherto been trifled with in Los Angeles, but which the Police Commissioners now declare their serious intention to enforce.

In this, as we have previously remarked, they should have the hearty moral support of all law-abiding citizens, for they are acting in the line of law, right and duty.

In attempting to correct some correct statements made by THE TIMES regarding the sale by foreclosure of the Nadeau Hotel property, the Herald perpetrates some remarkable arithmetical blunders. After stating that the lot is 120 feet front; that the building cost $125,000; that the original amount of mortgage was $225,000, and bid in was $238,000, the Herald draws the following extraordinary conclusion from these premises:

It will be seen that the amount of the original mortgage was at the rate of more than two thousand dollars per foot for the Spring-street frontage, and that the total sum due at the time of sale came to more than three thousand dollars per front foot for that frontage.

Our esteemed Democratic contempo rary should take some lessons in simple division before attempting to correct its neighbors some more.

REFERRING to the difficulties which beset city charters in California, the San Francisco Bulletin says:

San Francisco Bulletin says:

The only method of proceeding that will insure complete success is an amendment to the Constitution providing that the Legislature shall not meddle with local charters—that it shall have nothing to say about police departments, fire departments, street improvements or any of the manifold concerns of the municipalities, except as provided in the Constitution, to ratify or reject, without power of amendment, any changes which their citizens may have approved. If all the cities stand together at the next Legislature an amendment of this character can be secured. But the work will not be as easy as may be supposed. Legislative boodiers, unless forced, will be slow to surrender the privilege of raiding and harassing the municipalities in the interest of their employers or parasites.

AMUSEMENTS.

GRAND OPERA-HOUSE.-Precisely at a quarter to 11 o'clock last night the curtain was raised on the first act of Faust, just at the time, in fact, when most well-regulated performances close.

The delay was caused by an accident oc curring to the train bringing the Emma Juch English Opera Company to this city, which was not known in time to prevent the opening of the opera-house doors. The auditorium was crowded in every part, and the long delay was borne by the audience with a patience that was most remarkable. The railery gods relieved the tedium by singing songs in chorus, in the most goodnumored way, and while a great deal of hilarity prevailed in the upper circles, the best of order was preserved.

The company made ready in an astonishingly short space of time after its arrival, and it being evidently the pleasure of the audience that the opera should proceed, it was sung through in excellent style, taking into consideration the trying circumstances. At the late hour of the present writing it is impossible to make any extended notice of the performance, and it must suffice to say that we have evidently an excellent company

Institution. About two months ago the directors of the Los Angeles Public Library deof the Los Angeles Public Library determined to extend the usefulness of the institution under their care, and decided to place in circulation a large list of the best music. Two orders through Bartlett Bros. and J. W. Gardner's music stores were immediately forwarded east, and a few weeks ago the music arrived. It was then sent to the bindery and was neatly bound in limp leather, and within the past few days the majority of it has been placed on the shelves and is now driving a span of horses with a couple of bronco mules in the lead. He accidentally dropped a line from his hand and the mules started for a run. The driver held to the lines remaining in the effort to secure the lost one he fell from his seat upon the wheel horses. Being nimble, he recovered himself and still held to the team, which made up Grandin street at full speed. They had not run far, however, before they were stopped, without doing any material damage.

It sometimes happens that teachers of music desire pieces of a particular nature for their pupils, but they cannot ascertain exactly what they want by catalogues alone. The library will now assist them in their labors. It will also be of benefit to those who use the piano for pastime, for it will furnish them with an endless variety of good music. The vocal and instrumental scores of all the operas of any notoriety were also placed on the list, and these will also be of considerable advantage. There choral societies will find cantatas, choruses, oratorios and the works of the masters, and all the vantage. There choral societies will find cantatas, choruses, oratorios and everything they need at hand, and there need be no long delays hereafter n the selection of good programmes for the amusement of the public at arge.

Last night about 10 o'clock a one armed man named Warburton, station agent at Rivera, on the Southern Pa cific road, came to the police station and stated that his wife had left him, and was then at the Terre Haute House, on First street, but, as she refused to see him, unless he was accompanied by an officer, he wanted a policeman to go with him while he interviewed her. Officer Maguiro went with him to the house, where a long interview took place, which finally resulted, it is understood, in the wife agreeing to return to her parents in Tulare, the husband paying her expenses. The wife, it is said, claims that her husband assaulted her Tuesday, and that she left him by the advice of her friends. The husband, on the other hand, it is said, claims that the trouble has been caused by his wife's sister, who has been visiting them, and that she put it in his wife's head to leave her home. and stated that his wife had left him. head to leave her home.

Suddenly Insane. About 10:30 o'clock last night a tele phone message was received at the police station that a Miss Sloane, living on Lucas avenue, had become sud-denly finsane, and asking that the patrol wagon be sent out after her. This was done, and she was removed to the county jail for safe keeping.

It is the duty of every decent man in the South to put down mob law and to see that the colored man is fairly and kindly treated and protected in his every right as a man and a citizen.

The Herald makes a statement locally to the effect that Police Commissioner Thomas A. Lewis is "talked of" for the next Republican candidate for Sheriff of Los Angeles county, and in-ferentially affects to believe that he can be considered in the list of candi-dates. As Mr. Lewis has never enter-tained the ambition ascribed to him, and, moreover, is openly and unequiv-ocally the advocate of James M. Meredith for the place, it is difficult to find warrant for the use of his name in the connection employed by the Herald.

WASHINGTON (D. C.), Jan. 29.—[By the Associated Press.] Senate.—The bill was reported for the further appropriation of $350,000 for a public building at Los Angeles. After the disposition of other routine matter, Mr. Mitchell arose and addressed the Senate briefly on the bill for the free oinage of silver.

It was, he said, a subject involving a contention in the main between rich and poor, between the creditor class and the debtor class. It involved a gigantic effort, cause of his change of political affiliations, and that the prejudice against Republicans is gradually dying out in Virginia. The tariff issue, appealing to the interests and sympathies of the better classes of Virginians in a very effective form, probably has a good deal to do with the decline of the old animosity.

The Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle (Dem.) puts Senators Butler and Morgan to shame when it says:

The negro is here, and here to stay. He can neither be driven out nor killed out. It would be illegal and ungrateful to attempt the one and inhuman and cowardly to do the other. The nexro is docife and inorfensive, and the best laborer the South has ever known. It is the duty of every decent man in the South to put down mob law and to see that the colored man is fairly and kindly treated and protected in his every.

alone should continue to be the monetary standard. Was the financial ship of Americans to sail only in the wake of the golden tramps of Great Britan? Mr. Mitchell went on to argue that the only way to restore and secure national prosperity was to provide by law for the free and unlimited colorage of silver bullion into standard silver dollars of present weight and fineness, and to give to that colorage the debt-paying functions of legal tender, of course with proper restrictions to protect the mints from imposition, and also to provide for the issue of legal-tender certificates based on silver colorage. The Windom Bill he regarded as fatally defective. With slight amendments, however, that proposition stood third in his estimation as a measure in the right direction. The free and unlimited colorage of silver stood first.

At the conclusion of his address there was an executive session and the Senate adjourned.

Mr. Crisp raised a question of consideration.

Mr. Crisp raised a question of consideration.

On the vote all the Democrats except Messrs. Buckalew, Covert and Cowles retained from voting. While the Clerk was calling the roll the Speaker carefully counted those Democrats present and not voting. The vote was announced as yeas, 161: navs, 2.

Mr. Crisp raised the point of no quorum.

The Speaker directed the Clerk to record the names of the members present refusing the names of the members present refusing to vote. This was the signal for a burst of on the Democratic side.

When the name of Mr. Breckinridge of Kentucky was called, he stepped into the aisle and shouled, "I deny the power of the Speaker to do this, and denounce it as revolutionary."

Speaker to do this, and denounce it as revolutionary."

Cheer after cheer, characterized by the Republicans as "rebel yells," went up from the Democratic side, and it was saveral minutes before order was restored even partially. While the Clerk was reading the names a dozen Lemocrats were on their feet at one time prostesting. Mr. Outhwaite, among others, shouted that he was not present when his name was called.

Mr. Crisp appealed from the chair.

The Speaker finally said: "The gentleman must not mistake the situation. He is not to compet the chair to do certain things.

not to compel the chair to do certain things not to compel the chair to do certain things. The chair must proceed in order."

The Speaker then 'proceeded to make the statement that the Clerk had announced the members voting—161 yeas, 2 nays. The Clerk thereupon, having heard their names called in their presence, had directed a record to be made of this fact. Accordingly the question was now before the House, and the Chair proceeded to give a statement, accompanied by the ruling, from which appeal could be taken. The Speaker continuing, said that for some time questions of this nature had been raised in imany parliamentary assemblages, and there which appeal court be taken. The speaker continuing, said that for some time questions of this nature had been raised in many parliamentary assemblages, and there had been a good deal of doubt, especially in this body, on the subject. One of the first places where the question was raised was in the New York State Senate. The first places where the question was raised was in the New York State Senate. The present Governor of New York was the presiding officer, and upon him devolved a cuty similar to that which now devolved on the Speaker. He met that duty in precisely the same manner. The question had arisen in New York on the constitutional necessity of having three-fitths of the members constitute a quorum for the passage of a certain bill, and the presiding officer held that the constitutional provision as to a quorum was entirely satisfied by the presence of the members, even if they did not vote. That decision could not be regarded as partisan. There had also been a decision of the Tennessee Legislature in 1885. The Registration Bill was pending, and it was objected to by Republicans, who refused to vote, whereupon the Speaker directed the clerk to count the vote in the presence of those not voting, and declared the bill passed on that reading. Those two decisions seemed to the present occupant of the chair to cover the ground, but there was an entirely familiar process, which every old member would recognize, whereby the chair at all times had the right to record members present as constituting a part of the quorum. It has been of almost every-day occurrence at certain stages of the session for votes to be announced by the chair containing obviously and emphatically no quorum. Yet, if the point was not made, the bill was always declared passed, and that could only be on a very distinct basis, and that was that everybody present silently agreed to the fact that there was a quorum present by count. Again, there was a provision in the Constitution which declared that the House might establish rules for compel which would give the power of declaring the presence of members by the single voice of one person. In common with every member on his sate I demand that there be a public exhibition of the question, that there be tellers." He quoted from the remarks of Mr. Reed said: "The constitutional idea or a quorum is not the physical presence of a majority of members of the House, but a majority of members of the House, but a majority of members of the House, but a majority of members present and participating in the business." [Triumphant cheers on the Democratic side and in the gallery.]

Mr. Cannon said the gentieman on the other side should consult the Constitution, for, after all, in the Constitution, there was a quorum present toolsty, the country would sustain the House in going on and legislating. In conclusion Mr. Cannon laid down the proposition that by general parliamentary law, and under the Constitution, when a quorum was present, and the fact ascertained. tary law, and under the Constitution, when a quorum was present, and the fact ascep-tained, and when there was a majority voting in favor of a measure, that measure was adopted, whether it be a motion, a reso-voting in favor of a measure, that measure was adopted, whether it be a motion, a resolution or a law.

Mr. Cartisle said that Mr. Reed was taking a ground that no other Speaker of this House ever did. He quoted from the constitutional sections, and said that when the framers of the Constitution provided that a majority or the members-elect should constitute a quorum to do business, they saw that if it stopped there, less than a quorum could do nothing. Therefore they provided that less than a quorum could do nothing. Therefore they provided that less than a quorum could do certain things, adjourn from day to day, compel the attendance of absent members. If the ruling made this morning were correct, there was no necessity for any provision in the Constitution to define what less than a majority could do. He denied absolutely the right of the presiding officer of the House to make the right, then one man could pass a bill as well as 160. The Speaker was simply the organ of the House, not its master. He (Mr. Carlisle) was not here to deal in epithets, but he did say that if this ruling stood it worked a complete revolution in the method of transacting the business of the House.

cople Wait Three Hours for the pera - Scenes on the Stage After the Company Arrived-A Audience - A Good-natured Queer Time to Give a Show.

Truly there was a fashionable audiace at the Grand Opera-house last night, for the custain was not rung up the first act of Faust by the Emma Juch Opera Company until 10:41 o'clock. This is the first time in the history of theatrical management that formance has begun at that hour a performance has begun at that hear in the night, and had it not been that the audience was one of the bestnatured that ever gathered in any building, the owners of the Operahouse might have some heavy bills to pay for damaged seats. Even the gods' gailery behaved itself, and managed to let off steam by singing such songs as "Home, Sweet Home."

The Emma Juch Opera Company has been unfortunate so far as Los Angeles is concerned. They were billed to play here three weeks ago, but the big storm headed them off and they put in their time in San Francisco, and closed their engagement in that city only last Saturday. Managers Wyatt and Douglass threatened a damage suit, as it was claimed that the company could have reached the city one day late on the first engagement, but the matter was compromised, and the company was booked to open last night. In this they were like the Irishman who had to "run to be last." They played in San José night before last, and left that city between 12 and 1 o'clock vesterday morning on a special train in San José night before last, and left that city between 12 and 1 o'clock yesterday morning on a special train for this city. The railroad people thought they could get them here in 17 hours, but on account of the shaky condition of the road, the run was strung out until 20 hours had been consumed, and the company did not reach the depot until 9 o'clock, At 9:30 they rushed into the Opera-house, and one of the wildest scenes ever witnessed on any stage was comwitnessed on any stage was com-

Baggage and scenery were thrown around in a manner that would put a professional baggage smisher to shame. The leading artists and the chorus rushed about like wild, and stage hands and managers swore at each other, while the gods in front of the house sang everything from 'Old Blind Joe' up. Miss. Juch seemed to be the happiest person in the building. She skipped about the stage, talked to everybody who got in her way, and treated the whole thing as the biggest joke she ever heard of.

"We have had an awfully jolly trip, but I had no idea that we were to play this evening when I learned that we could not reach the eity until after 9 o'clock. Oh, I'm in love with that audience," she gushed, looking out through a hole in the curtain. "I never saw people behave so nice before. Just think, they have been there since 7:30, and we won't let them go home until 2 o'clock in the morning. Am I hungry? No, I can't say that I am. I'm excited and don't feel as if I shall ever want to eat again. I don't believe there is another audience in the world that could be held in their seats three hours waiting for the curtain to ge up." and the little woman danced off to her dressing-room.

Mike McGreel, a wealthy contractor, was on trial before Judge Stanton yes terday afternoon on a charge of violating the health ordinance, by shooting a mule in the city limits, and allowing it to remain where it fell. Several witnesses were examined, when it was shown that a man named Jones, who is in McGreel's employ, had an interest in the mule, and was the man who actually shot the mule, on which statement he was fined $5, which McGreel paid, Judge Stanton stating that if the dead mule was not got out

Manager Locke was seen behind the scenes, and said that he did not blame anyone for the delay. Their train left Mojave at 4 o'clock, and would have run in between 6 and 7 o'clock had it not been for a little mishap to one of the engines. A small rod broke and they were delayed quite a while. This happened near Lancaster, and that accounts for the announcement by the Southern Pacific officials here that the train had passed Lang's all right and would be in on time.

"When we consider the condition of the road" said Mr. Locke, "I think splendid time was made. When I learned that the audience was patiently waiting for us, I rushed things as fast as possible, for I would have gone on with the show or died in the attempt."

It was 1:30 o'clock this morning when the performance was concluded. The cable company had very graciously held its trains and kept its machinery in motion, so that the large audience experienced little difficulty in getting home.

RAILROADINGS.

THE JUCH TRAIN CAUSES SOME UNEASINESS.

Heroic Efforts of the Southern Pa cific Managers to Get It Here On Time-Close Contest for the Orange Shipments-A Distinguished Railroader Here.

The wires were kept hot about the Wolfskill depot yesterday afternoon. It was learned early in the day that the Emma Juch Opera Company and its special train were worming their way along down the San Joaquin Valley as if they did not care when they reached Los Angeles. Knowing that the company was billed to play in the Grand Opera-house last night, Assistant Division Superintendent Muir and his officers did all in their power to hurry the train up, but as it was run ning over a division out of Mr. Muir's jurisdiction he could do but little, and at 3:30 p.m. the refreshing news came that the train could not possibly read

Sec. 193. The rates of compensation for use of water to be collected by any person, company or corporation in said city, shall be fixed annually by ordinance, and shall continue in force for one year, and no longer. Such ordinances shall be passed in the month of February of each year, and take effect on the first day of July thereafter. Should the Council fall to pass the necessary ordinance, fixing the water rates within the time hereinbefore prescribed, it shall be subject to peremptory process to compel action at the suit of any party interested.

On motion of J. Mills Davies, the secretary was instructed to invite the different Boards of Trade of the city to confer with the Water Committee of this board, and formulate proper water rates, and prepare a report concerning the same, to be presented to the Council.

The attention of the board was called to divers lagoons and stagnant pools on different streets—Water, Figueroa and Cummings avenue, and on motion the matter was referred to T. R. J. Home, H. B. Adams and J. H. Bennett, with instructions to the Council.

The matter of regrading Temple street then came up.

E. E. Hall reported that some of those most opposed to the regrade had requested that a committee be appointed from the West End Board of Trade to confer with a similar committee from those opposed to said regrade, with a view to a compromise.

After a lengthy discussion of the matter, the tenor of which was against any concession or compromise, it was, on motion of A. M. Ellsworth, agreed to refer the matter to the committee to reper the matter to the committee to refer the matter, the tenor of which was against on the matter, the tenor of which was against in the matter, the tenor of which was against in the matter to the committee to t ting rates yet, but they are ready to commence at any moment.

General Manager Yarrington of the Newport and Mississippi Valley came in last night on a special, and will remain in the city several days. Mr. Yarrington claims to be here for pleasure only, but the local magnates look wise when questioned about his intentions, and close their lips with a significant snap.

The Santa Ana division of the Southern Pacific was opened yesterday, and the company does not anticipate further trouble this season. All the other branches are open and trains were running on time yesterday.

were running on time yesterday.

CORONADO WATER SIEGEL HATTER

The most eminent physicians will tell you that the first principle of any cure to be arrived at, is the formation of a healthy, rich blood. The body is thus enabled to effect its own restoration.

No Medicine known to man can produce this much desired result so effectually as Pure, Wholesome Water, such as flows from the Coronado Natural Springs. "The less mineral salts, a wafer contains, the greater is its value for table use; this constitutes much of its virtue as a remedy in Kidney allments. The absence of potassium salts is greatly in favor of the Coronado Natural Mineral Water."—Prof. W. T. Wenzell, Chemist, San Francisco.

ONE of these days is worth an eternity in—say the North Pole.

ORANGE GROVE AVENUE and Colorado street are thronged with fine turnouts these days, and present a lively appearance. These long roadwith their miles of cement sidewalk, tell the story that Pasadena is letermined to have the best.

THERE is one point upon which we can agree with the Prohibitionists, extreme or otherwise. We do not want to see groggeries in Pasadena, and sery, at Linda Vista. All this tells of orange groves that will be in bearing four or five years from now.

THE trees and orange groves are filled with a wonderful variety of songsters-sparrows, cedar birds. hummers, fly-catchers, mocking birds, robins, all in and about a single tree, was a sight to be seen yesterday. The Pasadena winter is admirably adapted to the requirements of bird creation. They come here in good faith, work hard all winter, eating the grubs and various insect pests. Should we not

THE stranger casting his or her eye in the direction of the upland slopes ow catches gleams of brilliant color. Deep copper-red rivers wind away or out in well-defined patches against the green. As night comes on it mysteriously disappears. The effect of color is produced by the California poppy, the eschscholtzia of the anist. It comes out at this time, fairly covering acres—a wonderful and gladdsome sight, converting the fairly covering acres—a wonderful and gladdsome sight, converting the upland slopes into a field of the cloth of gold. As the sun approaches the horizon the poppies go to sleep, their petals close, and long before sundown the change is noticed. So brilliant was the color in former days, and is so widespread that it is said that mariners could see it from the Pacific and named the counformer days, and is so widespread that it is said that mariners could see it from the Pacific and named the country the Land of Fire. WARMTH AND SUNSHINE.

Pasadena on a Clear Winter Day-

Everybody Happy. Let it rain for a week in Pasadena and a day such as yesterday will make a typical Southern California midwinter day, such as the past two days have been, is seen at its best.

The street scenes are inspiriting. Everybody, who can be, is out of doors breathing the life-giving air, tempered by the warm rays of a semi-tropical The invalid; the person on invalid, but now restored to health by the man who always has been healthy. and who knows enough to remain so by living in a climate such as Pasadena can boast of, are all out for an airing, and all are smiling and as happy as all are smiling and as happy can be. Some are walking, but more are riding and driving-for a horse in Cali fornia is considered an almost neces formia is considered an almost necessary luxury. There are picnic parties and taily-ho parties drawn by four prancing steeds; equestrians and pedestrians, all on pleasure bent. Then, too, the street-car lines are well parronized, for they afford plenty of pleasure in the way of sight-seeing to the tourist and pleasure-seeker at a nominal sum.

To picnic on a January day in midsummer fashion, or to pluck roses and poppies until you are tired, and then to sit down and rest in warmth and sunshine of a kind that makes a straw hat appear anything but ridiculous, are a few of the privileges peculiar to Pasadena, which go toward making the town one of the most popular all-the-year-round health resorts and residence locations in the country.

Miss Alice Clapp, who will leave for Boston tomorrow for a course of study, was pleasantly surprised Tuesday evening at her home on Orange Grove avenue. The Young People's Christian Endeavor Society of the First Congre-gational Church, of which Miss Clapp is an active member, visited her in a body and spent the evening in a highly enjoyable manner. The visit was in the nature of a farewell reception. Miss Clapp's departure will be much regretted by her many friends.

THE MEDICAL SOCIETY DIS-CUSSES "LA GRIPPE."

Opinions of Various Physicians-Variety of Cases Treated - The Epidemic Undoubtedly Prevalent Here-Remedies Suggested

A regular meeting of the Pasadena Medical Society was held Tuesday evening. Dr. Adams occupied the chair, and the other members present were Secretary F. F. Rowland and Drs. Van Slyck, Fraser, Shumway, Newman and Pinckney.

The minutes of the last meeting were treme or otherwise. We do not want to see groggeries in Pasadena, and when they instituate that The TIMEs is in traceipt of a letter asking it to give a sample of the kind of man it would support for the Council, and to this we see no objection. We suggest Judge Vandervoort of Lake avenue, a gentleman who has a big place in the hearts of many Passidenians.

MR. B. M. Wotkyns appeared as cashier of the San Gabriel Bank yesterday, and the institution is to be congratulated in securing the services of so conservative and successful a business man to fill this important position. The association can—but add strength to what is now one of our best-known banking institutions.

With warmer days come thoughts of the harvest in the spring. There will probably be more grain produced this year in Southern California than ever ligotne. The demand for orange stock is suggestive of the interest taken in this direction. The Pains nursery, H. N. Rust & Co., reports an extraordinary demand. So with the Park nursery, at Linda Vista. Before closing, the speaker said that, in his opinion, the disease is much milder in this climate than in the East, and that the surprising death-rate in various sections of the country is due to the complications that arise in those suffering from some chronic disease. La grippe was not regarded as more fatal than ordinary influenza, as is met with every nary influenza, as is met with every year, and the belief was expressed that year, and the belief was expressed that the epidemic is on the wane.

Dr. Shumway spoke of some cases he had met in his practice, and agreed with Dr. Van Slyck that it is not unusual for the people of the East to have epidemics of influenza when the winter is favorable to its propogation as this one has been. Drs. Newman and Shultz referred briefly and to much the same effect to their la grippe patients. Dr. Fraser followed, mentioning a case of croup in connection with la grippe.

Dr. Pinckney said he began treating cases exhibiting symptoms of la grippe

Dr. Newman inquired in regard to by Dr. Van Slyck. He did not think his own cases showed any evidences of contagion. Dr. Van Slyck told of a case where 55 grains of phenacetine had been taken by mistake in 15 hours without any ill result. Drs. Rowland without any ill result. Drs. The german at Dr. Channing's residence, on Orange Grove avenue, las night, was well attended and provone of the pleasantest social events the season. Mr. Ball led with good effect, introducing several new and pretty figures.

Pete Steil has some fine photographs of Wilson's Peak and the snowstorm of Wilson's Peak and the snowstorm, showing all the terrors of an eastern winter, the snowman, snowballs, etc. This can be reached from the orange groves of this city in four hours. No better advertisement of Pasadena could be made than to send half a dozen of the snow scenes and half a dozen orange and rose scenes to eastern friends. Then, again, it is a good thing to patronize pluck. Mr. Steil and Mr. Friend of Los Angeles made a big fight through the snowbanks to take them.

THE WEBSTER.

Tuesday evening a well-rendered musical programme was given in a blow. Wipe from my mustache the moisture of sneeze, put wooden splints on my poor weakened knees: Rub my red nose as you oft have before with tallow, dear mother, ob, it is so sore. Back, turn backward, O tide of the mose! Lam so tired from my head to my toes: Tired out with mopping and coughing and sneezing; weary from handkerchief constantly seizing; and sew it up, mother, I have the a grippe. blow. Wipe from my mustache the Oakland and Canadian system, and is entirely educational.

Mr. J. de Barth Shorb contributed part of the land, and by slow degrees the building has been completed, and now forms one, of the ornaments of our southern boundary and another step in filling up the country. The building is a stylish one, four stories in hight, standing on a sightly hill within five minutes' drive of the Raymond Station on the Southern Pacific. It is not like the typical convent, but is bright and cheery in every respect; in fact, a beautiful Christian home where young ladies will be cuttivated amid artistic surroundings. Entering the building we Christian home where young ladies will be cultivated amid artistic surroundings. Entering the building we were met by the courteous sisters, Sister Superior Augustine being in charge. To the right is a fine drawing-room, bright, cheery, hung with handsome painting and works of art from the studio. Bright carpets, books, etc., give one a most pleasant and favorable impression. On the left of the entrance is the office of the Sister Superior, and leading from this an elegant and commodious chapel, capable of holding one hundred and fifty or more. The stations here are particularly elegant, being in high relief. They were imported especially for this convent. The altar cloth and decorations are unusually fine, the former being hand painted and very expensive. Back of these rooms are numerous lavatories, the latter being found on every floor, the cheerful dining-rooms, etc., while below is the kitchen, which is all that it should be. On the second floor we find the room of the Sister Superior and others, the music rooms, where the young ladies practice and study. Here is the studio, a most delichtful

The grounds of the convent have not yet been laid out, owing to the rains—but when trees are planted it will be one of the most attractive places in the valley. The convent is about half an hour's drive from the Raymond. One feature of the convent school which is of interest the public are both present the propile are both present and the propile are both present and the present of interest, the pupils are both Pro-testant and Catholic, and no influence is brought to bear upon them. The following seems to be the platform of work:

Christian education is twofold in its object. Mind and heart must receive due attention, nor can one be cultivated to the exclusion of the other. Woman regenerates or debases society; on the moral and religious principles that she imbibes in early years chiefly depends her future usefulness. To adorn the character with those Christian graces which marked the holy women of old, to inculcate a sound morality equally removed from rigidity and sentiment, to store the intellect with the riches of science and art, and at the same time to instil that ease and refinement which mark the woman of virtue and culture—such is the scope of the education work:

ture—such is the scope of the education which the Sisters of the Holy Names make it their life duty to impart. The convent is a branch of the one at Oakland, and has a corps of experienced teachers from the older and well-known institution. All educacational institutions are to be encouraged, and THE TIMES extends the new venture a hearty welcome.

FARM TOPICS.

THERE'S money in green corn, ap parently, an exchange remarking that 15 sacks from E. J. Baldwin's ranch ately sold for $2.50 per sack.

BANANAS were pretty sharply nipped by the frost, and it is noticeable that the small ones suffered worst, seeming to be browned clear down, while the old and large plants were seared only at the extremities.

THE Compton Independent claims that the overflow has done more good than otherwise, and says: The alluvial deposits over the Tweedy place is from two to three feet deep, and about eighteen inches deep in the Bellwood and Snodgrass farms.

THE largest authenticated yield of corn per acre is reported from Marlboro county, S. C. The American Agriculcounty, S. C. The American Agricul-turist offered a premium of $500 for the largest yield, and the State board offered $500 more. Z. J. Drake cap-tured the prize, his acre making 255 bushels, green weight, 239 bushels kiln dried, and 217 bushels chemically dried. The largest yield of wheat was at Salt Lake City, 80 bushels on one acre.

Those who moved their lawns too near frost time are reaping the reward in having them turned brown by the in having them turned brown by the freeze. Better let them alone; then their length will protect them from any freeze we have here. Bermuda grass has been used by many for lawn, because it is hardier than the blue grass, but it looks bad in winter, turning as brown as though burned over. Blue grass is hardy enough when well started, standing any reasonable wear without injury. without injury.

RICH as Southern California is in the products of the soil, she will yet beproducts of the soil, she will yet become famous for some that are now scarcely thought of. What she has now are chiefly such as have been suggested by the circumstances of her settlement. The mission fathers, coming from the home of the semitropical fruits, naturally brought them

The Dedication—A Fine Building in Sightly Ramona.

Yesterday the new Convent of the Holy Names of Jesus and Mary, at Ramona, on the borders of Pasadena, was dedicated by the high authorities was consistent with the ceremonies of a new country, which had neither manufacturing machinery nor skill to operate it, and could scarcely be expected to produce that which depended on those of a new era has brought with it other conditions requiring a different policy. was dedicated by the high authorities of the church in the presence of a large and distinguished audience of county people.

For some months past Pasadenians have seen the large building slowly rising against the foothills to the south, and many have wendered what it was. The convent is a branch of the sage cast an eye over the it was. The convent is a branch of the ago cast an eye over the Oakland and Canadian system, and is entirely educational.

Mr. J. de Barth Shorb contributed their gains. The climatic adaptability of the land, and by slow degrees the building has been completed, and now forms one, of the facility of its manufacture was of slower growth. Not until nearly a score of years after the first cottonfield whitened the plains of the San Joaquin, did the hum of a spindle respond in the mills of East Oakland—the pioneers of all the country west of the Rocky Mountains, and now the industry is fairly set in motion—that of growing and making our own cotton goods—and in the years to come it will occupy much of the land not specially adapted to citrus fruits. Climate seems to be its chief requisite, wanting soven or to citrus fruits. Cilmate seems to be its chief requisite, wanting seven or eight months' absolute immunity from frost, with which condition it will stand almost any altitude, from sea level to 9000 feet above. The best and highest-priced is the sea-island, growing at tidewater, in which respect cotton differs from the grape, whose finest product is on the uplands. "It is said," says Drone, "that no crop in the United States presents an appearance so beautiful as growing cotton, especially at the gathering season, when the globes of snowy wool are seen among the glossy, dark green leaves; and the beauty of the plantation is still greater in the hotter countries, where the yellow blossom or flower. where the yellow blossom or flower, and the ripened bolls are seen at the same time. In June the cottonfields present the appearance of vast flower gardens. The blossom resembles that of the hollyhock, and has the peculiarity of changing color from day to day. A flower-opening in the morning of a pale straw color, by noon will be pure white, in the afternoon faint pluk, and of the Sister Superior and others, the music rooms, where the young ladies practice and study. Here is the studio, a most delightful "den," under the charge of the artist of the convent sisters. The walls are adorned with sketches, study models and the various appliances of the artist. The samples of work by students show that this branch is unusually well developed here. On the opposite side of this floor are the schoolrooms, large, airy and pleasant. students show that this branch is unusually well developed here. On the opposite side of this floor are the schoolrooms, large, airy and pleasant. In fact, every room in the house is sunny some time during the day.

On the floor above are the dormitories, containing the apartments of the young ladies, bright and cheery in every respect. The school opens in a very propitious manner, a large number of young ladies being already there, among them two of the daughters of Mr. J. de Barth Shorb. The grounds of the convent have not plant continuing to produce and ripen bolls of cotton until the appearance of frost), the height of the season being in October. Its culture was early ex-perimented with in Southern California, and doubtless would twenty years ago and doubtless would twenty years ago have been extensively prosecuted had there been a market for it. The want of it caused it to languish for nearly a generation, until now the establishment of mills at East Oakland revives interest in it, furnishes a market, seed and all needful information, from which encouragement it is not ket, seed and all needful information, from which encouragement it is not unreasonable to hope that extensive plantation and other mills may result throughout Southern California Many people have already procured seed, and the prospect is that the growth of cotton will start hand in hand with that of beet sugar, and thus two great twin industries be added

The Express of last evening says of the filing of inselvency papers by John Koster: "His indebtedness, which embraces nearly everything in the line of living, even to a small subscription to living, even to a small subscription to the Daily Times stock, amounts to $10.946.28." Must be some mistake there; Mr. Koster never subscribed for any stock of The Times.

There was no meeting of the Police Commission yesterday afternoon. It will be held at the Mayor's office at the usual hour this afternoon, to which time an adjournment was had at the last meeting, as the commissioners expected to go to Whittier to attend the laying of the corner-stone of the Reform School, which, however, had to be postponed on account of the weather.

At the Illinois social this evening there will be plano duets by Misses Winnie and Nellie Conner, guitar selections by Prof. C. S. de Lano, and banjo solos by Harry Walls; vocal music by George Hanna, Miss Nettie L. Shaffner, Miss Estella Erdman and Miss Nettie Palmer; elocutionary exercises by Tom Barnes, Miss Blanche Bradshaw, Miss J. N. Harner, Miss Amelia Budlong and Miss Jennie Prewett; also b dialogue, in costume, by Rait Hanna and G. Hersee, followed by a song.

The following passengers left for the north by the Southern Pacific train yesterday: Charles Wilderman, J. Lanstern, J. C. Ainsworth, Mr. Klauber, G. A. Bilgee, Capt. Banning. Business Changes.

Among the many business changes which have been announced there is none more to be regretted than the retirement of Meyer Lewis & Co., the popular boot and shoe merchants. It has been expected for some time that their interests elsewhere would be apt to terminate their business interests here, and it has finally turned that way. The entire stock of boots, shoes and slippers is to be closed out at once in order to wind up the business here. Among the many business changes

Dick Gird Appointed. A private telegram from San Fran-elsco states that Richard Gird has cisco states that Itichard Gird has been appointed a member of the State Board of Agriculture, and will take charge of the citrus fair at Los An-geies. This relieves the objectionable Mr. G. Washington Hancock from the onerous task of taking charge of a fair where he is not wanted.
